To whom it may concern:

This is to confirm that Pharmabridge has been able to arrange for Mr Venkata Ramarao, Chalapathi Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences, Chalapathi Nagar, Guntur, Andrapradesh, to attend a workshop/training seminar as a visiting scholar at the USC School of Pharmacy from January 5 through February 1 2017, organized by Professor Michael Z. Wincor, University of Southern California USA¹. The selection for Pharmabridge training is based on academic and professional achievements and qualifications. Pharmabridge will subsidize Mr Venkata Ramarao with 500 euro. So far over 30 Indian pharmacists have been placed in the United states of America and they have all returned to their practice sites after their visit.

This will allow him to update his professional competence and develop new initiatives and strengthen his pharmacy department upon return to India. Pharmabridge is a programme of the International Pharmaceutical Federation aimed at strengthening pharmaceutical services in developing countries.

Dear Mr. Rao:

In conjunction with the international Pharmabridge program, I am pleased to confirm your opportunity to visit with us for a workshop/training seminar as a visiting scholar at the USC School of Pharmacy from January 5 through February 1, 2017.

In order to enter the United States, you will need to apply for a visa at a US embassy in your country. The purpose of your visit is to observe our integrated, interdisciplinary teaching approaches focusing on principles of central nervous system therapeutics. You will observe lectures, discussions, and small group exercises related to clinical pharmacy education and practice here in the US and principles of clinical thinking, utilizing central nervous system therapeutics as an example. You will have the opportunity to participate in social activities with some of our USC faculty and PharmD students. You will also participate in visits to some of our School of Pharmacy operated pharmacies and other practice sites to learn about advanced clinical pharmacy practice. In addition, there will be ample time available for exploration in and around Los Angeles. While at USC, you will be under my direct supervision along with my colleagues, with assistance by our office staff.

During your visit, you will be neither a registered nor degree-seeking student at the University of Southern California. You will not receive academic credit from USC for this visit.

There is no salary or stipend associated with your visit. All fees for the program, including visa fees, travel, accommodations, meals, local transportation, and incidentals, are expected to be paid by you with assistance from the stipend provided by the Pharmabridge program and any other funding sources – institutional or personal. If necessary, I shall pay the fee for visa processing charged on this end by our university. We will attempt to assist with identifying housing.

Due to the high cost of health care in the United States, and especially in the Los Angeles area, the federal government now requires that all exchange visitors and accompanying dependents be covered by adequate health and accident insurance while in this country. We, therefore, will need to have written acknowledgement from you that you are aware of the need to obtain the requisite health insurance while in this country.

We are very pleased to offer you this opportunity to observe our teaching and practice here at USC and look forward to working with you soon.

As flight and housing arrangements become finalized, we'll provide information on how to travel from the Los Angeles International Airport to your accommodations and from where you are staying to our Health Sciences Campus. On January 6th, we'll have you come to the campus for processing of a USC ID badge and orientation.

For any questions regarding visas and the USC Office of International Services, please contact our Manager of Human Resources, Ms. Elaine Miyamoto, at emiyamot@usc.edu or 323-442-0994. For issues regarding health care and housing, please contact Ms. Chun-Chi (Kristy) Huang, here in the Office of Global Initiatives, at USC School of Pharmacy Office of Global Initiatives <pharmuscglobal@usc.edu>. If you or any other official require further clarification, please do not hesitate to contact us. If there are any logistics questions regarding the experience, please contact me directly.
