Faculty attended : Prof. K.N.Rajini Kanth
Professor & HOD
Department of Pharmaceutical analysis
Chalapathi Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences, Guntur

Students attended : Ch. Jaswanth Kumar, III/IV B.Pharmacy
Ch. Sai Shanmukha Kumar, III/IV B.Pharmacy

Venue : Birla Institute of Technology, Pilani, Hyderabad.

Workshop on Molecular Modelling and Drug Design was organised by Department of Pharmacy, BITS-Pilani, Hyderabad campus on October 29th 2017. The workshop was sponsored by health partners like Century hospital, Lotus hospitals and KIMS hospitals.

Molecular modeling has created an immense opportunity for researchers to design novel leads and novel chemical entities. Computational techniques used in the drug discovery process have drastically reduced the time and cost of drug development. The research studies have enhanced our understanding of molecular properties and the specific behavior of drug-receptor interaction at the molecular level. This workshop focused on the current techniques of molecular modeling and drug design that are being used by researchers for predicting the 3D structure of proteins and in designing of drug molecules through guided practical training.

Dr. M. Ravi Kumar, Senior Application Scientist, Schrodinger, Bangalore delivered lecture and provided hands on training for the participants during the workshop. Faculty members, research scholars and students of host institution and from various other institutions, universities participated in the workshop.

DATES : 06-10-2017

The Academia day at evonik seminar is an excellent opportunity to the academic fraternity from formulation development to learn about aspects of advances in formulation sciences using EUDRAGIT and RESOMERs with which we got a very focused training on relevant topics connected to EUDRAGIT and its versatile applications in drug delivery options and biomaterials.

We as participants from academia in this event has a high relevance to the seminar agenda and it provided a room for expert discussions and we are also able to directly apply the learnings from the workshop to the student's work.

- The session has started with a welcome and introduction to Evonik by Ms. Tanmaya telang
- It was followed by a seminar on 'Drug delivery application of PLGA and its nanoparticles' by Dr. Sanyog Jain, Associate Professor, NIPER Mohali

- Mr.Sudhir toraskar presented a talk on introduction to evonik health care
- Ms.Ritu joshi has highlighted the idea of evonik for academic institutions
- After an interactive break the session was followed up by Dr.Vineeth patel on the topic 'Science behind effective coating'
- Dr.Nitesh shah, Head, Formulation and application sciences, Evonik, south asia division presented 'Resomer and its applications'
- Post lunch session was continued with practical demonstrations on hot melt extrusion, spray drying and pellet coating
- The basics of hot melt extrusion and its demonstration on hot melt extruder were discussed and demonstrated by Mr.Pawan zade

The main use of HME is to disperse active pharmaceutical ingredients (APIs) in a matrix at the molecular level, thus forming solid solutions. In the pharmaceutical industry, HME has been used for various applications, such as (i) enhancing the dissolution rate and bioavailability of poorly soluble drugs by forming a solid dispersion or solid solution, (ii) controlling or modifying the release of the drug, (iii) taste masking of bitter APIs, and (iv) formulation of various thin films

Operation principal is feeding of the extruder through a hopper, mixing/grinding/reducing the particle size steps are intermittent and is followed through flow through the die and extrudes from the die and further downstream processing steps.

- The basics of spray drying and its demonstration on spray dryer were discussed and demonstrated by Mr.Bhavik tayde

There are three fundamental steps involved in spray drying.

- 1) Atomization of a liquid feed into fine droplets.
- 2) Mixing of these spray droplets with a heated gas stream, allowing the liquid to evaporate and leave dried solids.
- 3) Dried powder is separated from the gas stream and collected.

Spray drying involves the atomization of a liquid feedstock into a spray of droplets and contacting the droplets with hot air in a drying chamber. The sprays are produces by either rotary (wheel) or nozzle atomizers. Evaporation of moisture from the droplets and formation of dry particles proceed under controlled temperature and airflow conditions. Powder is discharged continuously from the drying chamber. Operating conditions and dryer design are selected according to the drying characteristics of the product and powder specification.

The main advantage of spray drying is the remarkable versatility of the technology, evident when analyzing the multiple applications and the wide range of products that can be obtained. From very fine particles for pulmonary delivery to big agglomerated powders for oral dosages, from amorphous to crystalline products and the potential for one-step formulations, spray drying offers multiple opportunities that no other single drying technology can claim. This flexibility and reproducibility makes spray drying the process of choice for many industrial drying operations

The basics of pellet coating (Fluid bed processing) and its demonstration on fluid bed processor were discussed and demonstrated by Dr.Vineeth patel in where he has discussed key aspects:

Nozzle

Droplet size and Distribution is controlled

Distribute fluidizing air between the inner and outer partitions

Plenum Chamber

Equalize pressure for more even distribution

Cylinder (PG)

Particles are actually sucked through the partition gap

Candles/ Filter bags

For continuous fluidization

Expansion chamber

For recurring flow of the particles

Process Parameters

- Blower speed
- Atomization
- Inlet temperature
- Spray rate
- Pump rpm

Formulation Parameters

- Size distribution of substrate

The spray variables like spray rate, degree of atomization, spray pattern, nozzle to bed distance and considerations in preparing different film forming solutions using eudragits. Concepts of improper coat on pellets were discussed along with most common technical error in coating process faced by many pharmacy companies i.e, weight gain in pellets during pelletization and coating.

The attendees has interacted with the experts after completion of demonstrations and gained the knowledge on do's and dont's in making polymer solutions

Gland pharma is a pioneer in parenteral manufacture with around 360 formulations including antibiotics, anticancer and ophthalmic products. We were hosted by Dr. Prasanna Sagar, general manager, formulation research and development. The unit is engaged in the development of ANDA's to produce product with competitive pricing and cost effective medicines to cater the community. The course of ANDA's development will start ahead with three exhibit batches which are optimized for the process parameters to meet the critical quality attributes of the product. The products which are developed were tested for accelerated stability testing and real time testing as per ICH guidelines for 3 years at a frequency of 0,3,6,9,12 months of 1st year and for every 6 months in the 2nd year and annually in the 3rd year and then finalized for scale-up batches. All the samples collected were analyzed by the department of quality assurance (DQA). The engineering department made to witness installation operation, performance and maintenance of equipment.

The following are the some of the products for instance which are being manufactured viz., heparin, pemitrixide, decitabine, zoladronic acid bendamustine, azacitidine, iphosphamide, mesna, azelastine, tobramycin, ertapenam. The products were lyophilized based on the stability profile. Department of Regulatory affairs has informed us that they will issue certificate of analysis after filing batch manufacturing record (BMR) and Product development record (PDR). After scrupulous review of the documents the ANDA will be filed as per the regulatory norms pertained to specific country. Gland Pharma has filed 300 products across the globe i.e., 60 countries. Very recently, pemitrixide, an anti-cancer injection is formulated in liquid form and the same has been patented. If information request letter (IRL) is received by the country that ratifies the product is provisionally being approved provided with minor changes that have to be corrected by the company. On the other hand, if there is complete response letter (CRL) that indicates the product is out of specification (OOS). So the whole process should be re-investigated.
